REPORT 350 KILLED IN SHIP EXPLOSION

Round-World Record Set By "Bombshell"

12 Hours Clipped from Former Flight Mark Held by Hughes.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 16—Airport crowds broke through police lines early today to welcome, with kisses and congratulations, three men whose trip around the world was the quickest ever made.

Milton Reynolds, Chicago pen manufacturer; his pilot, William Odom, and his flight engineer, T. Carroll Sallee, brought their converted A-26 bomber—the "Bombshell"—over La Guardia field at 12:06:30 a. m., just 78 hours and 55 minutes after their takeoff last Saturday. Their unofficial record cut 12 hours and 19 minutes from the previous unofficial record.

Reynolds said the trip was tiring, sometimes dangerous, and I would not make the trip again for $100,000,000." But he added jubilantly to reporters:

"We made the fastest crossing of the Atlantic ever made, in five hours and 17 minutes; we also made a record trip to Paris and Gander (Newfoundland) and maybe some other records."

Hughes Held Record

The previous unofficial round-the-world flight record, 91 hours and 14 minutes, was set in 1938 by Howard Hughes, who wired Reynolds, "my heartiest congratulations for your excellent performance." Hughes and his four crew members had taken their monoplane around a shorter route.

"The Bombshell" averaged about 254 miles an hour on its 20,020-mile flight. Taking into account 16 hours and 9 minutes lost in its nine stops, the big plane averaged about 318 miles an hour in actual flight.

As the plane landed police no longer could restrain the crowd, and for several minutes women admirers smeared the three men with kisses.

Finally, Sallee was able to get together with his 19-year-old bride-to-be, Patricia Houlihan of Cody, Wyo., and the other two were able to kiss their wives.

Last Leg Toughest

Reynolds told reporters that the last leg of the flight, from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, was the toughest part" and he "was worried sick" when they flew through ice and fog between Minneapolis and Detroit.

"We covered a lot more miles than we figured. We didn't plan to stop at Gander or Calcutta," he said.

"We had a half hour's gas supply left when we came over New York and brother, let me tell you I was worried."

The "bombshell" flew an estimated 5,200 miles farther than Hughes' plane. The A-26 stopped at Gander, Paris, Cairo, Karachi and Calcutta in India; Shanghai, Tokyo, Adak in the Aleutians, and Edmonton.

RED SCHOOL INQUIRY URGED

Ohio State Senator Sees Evidence of Need To Probe Universities.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 16—Sen. Robert A. Pollock (R-Stark) said today testimony at a senate education committee hearing convinced him an investigation of alleged Communism in Ohio schools was warranted.

Pollock is a member of the committee which opened a hearing yesterday on a proposal by Sen. I. E. Baker (R-Montgomery) for an inquiry into reported un-American activities in schools and colleges throughout the state.

Witnesses told the committee they had evidence of communistic textbooks and teaching in a number of Ohio schools. Baker said the federal government had promised to aid any investigation approved by the legislature.

Shows Party Handbill

Rep. Claude Woodward, (R-Montgomery) displayed a handbill criticizing President Truman which was signed: "Ohio State university chapter, Communist party." He said it was circulated in the campus area.

Woodward also described as "very bad" current activities of the American Youth for Democracy, which was banned from the university after the FBI disclosed the organization was a successor to the Young Communist League.

H. W. Binegar of Dayton, a former federal employe, said Antioch college had on its faculty an instructor identified by the Dies committee as an active Communist

GAS BURNER FUMES KILL 2 IN GALION HOME

Bodies of Man and Woman Found; Believed Dead Since Sunday.

Special to The Star

GALION, April 16—Accidental death by asphyxiation is the verdict of Crawford County Coroner O. R. Kackley in the deaths of Mrs. Alice Highly, 47, and Samuel R. Phillips, 54, who were found dead at the Phillips home at 144 South Pierce street, Tuesday, at 9 p. m. by Chief James L. Walker and Captain Charles Lauer of the Galion police department. Condition of the bodies led to the belief the couple had been dead about 48 hours.

A gas fire was burning in the living room and the room was filled with fumes when they arrived at the home, police said. They had been summoned there by R. L. Clements of 110 South Pierce street, a close friend of the couple. He reported to police that he thought something must be wrong at the Phillips home because Mr. Phillips' car had been parked in the same place for two days.

Mail Still in Box

Coroner Kackley said that Monday's newspapers were still in the mailbox at the Philips home, which also indicated that the couple had been dead since Sunday evening.

Clements reported that Mrs. Highly, whose residence is at 628½ Harding Way East, had gone to the Phillips home Sunday afternoon to prepare Mr. Phillips' dinner.

Mrs. Highly, a former resident of Caledonia, had lived in Galion for several years and was formerly employed in the offices of the Perfection Steel Body Co.

Mr. Phillips was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad at Crestline.

Democrats Discard Organized Campaign Against Labor Bill

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 16—House Democrats discarded any idea today of an organized campaign to knife the pending labor bill to check strikes and unions.

That decision gave Republicans almost a clear path to passage of the measure tomorrow—a day earlier than they had counted on.

The Democratic strategy is part of the behind-the-scenes politics swirling around the severe new labor bill as it rolled into another round of debate and approached the amending and voting stage.

Both sides are eyeing the hefty labor vote for the 1948 campaign.

Pin Responsibility on G.O.P.

The plan of the Democratic command is to try to pin full responsibility on the Republicans for whatever bill they finally drive through the house. They figure labor would try to get even at the polls next year.

But Republicans—and some Democrats—are banking on rank and file union members to back their measure even though union leaders oppose it. They point to a "bill of rights" section which they say will rid members of union "tyranny."

In the senate, some Republicans and southern Democrats were sizing up the chances of toughening up on the floor a milder bill that was softened even more in the labor committee.

The senate expects to debate labor legislation next week.

The labor committee there is through with the bill except for rounding off rough edges and a final vote of approval later in the week.

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio), beaten in a number of attempts to prevent diluting the measure, was undecided whether to offer a substitute or try to tighten the original bill by amendments on the floor.

Taft's committee slashed from the bill yesterday all restrictions on the right of unions to bargain collectively with an entire industry.

The house measure would forbid such bargaining almost without exception.

Both bills would restrict strikes, especially those affecting the national health and safety. They would give the government the right to obtain court orders to prevent or stop such a strike during a period of mediation.

Both bills also ban the closed shop but allow the union shop. In a closed shop, the boss can hire nobody but union members. In the union shop he can hire anyone, but new workers must join the union later.

The house yesterday polished off almost four of the six hours allowed for general discussion of its bill. That left amendments in or after the rest of the time was used up.

Gruner, 3 Others Die On Palestine Gallows

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, April 16—Dov Bela Gruner and three other Jews convicted of anti-British violence died on the gallows in Acre prison at dawn today shortly after government authorities initiated iron security measures intended to prevent bloody retaliation.

Gruner, a 33-year-old Hungarian veteran of the British army, and the other three were members of Irgun Zvai Leumi, the Jewish underground organization which claims to have been responsible for most of Palestine's bloodletting in recent months.

Gruner was sentenced Jan. 1 by a British military court which found him guilty of participating in a raid on the Ramat Gan police station last April 23 in which two policemen were killed and Gruner wounded.

Convicted of Bearing Arms

The other three—Dov Ben Salman Rosenbaum, 24; Elieser Ben Zion Kashani, 23; and Mordecai Ben Abraham Alkachi, 21—were condemned on Feb. 10 by another military court which convicted them of having arms and whips in their possession when they were arrested on Dec. 23, the night a British major and three sergeants were flogged by the underground in retaliation for the whipping of an Irgun member.

Irgun repeatedly has threatened reprisals against the British if their "soldiers" were hanged and British Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones declared in February that Gruner's death almost certainly would signal a new blood bath in the Holy Land.

In an effort to bar just such a development, the British clamped a strict security ring around almost every Jewish quarter in the land, putting an estimated 400,000 Jews under house arrest. It was probably the most severe security measure ever instituted by the British here.

Becomes Symbol

Gruner, the first Jew to be executed for terrorism in Palestine since Shlomo Ben Youssef was hanged in August, 1938, has become, since his conviction, a symbol of Irgun Zvai Leumi's violent policies against the British.

He had adamantly refused to take any action on his own behalf, maintaining that he was a prisoner of war and should be treated as one. When it appeared, early this year, that he was to be hanged, Irgun kidnaped two British civilians—H. A. Collins and Judge Ralph Wyndham—as hostages and held them until Gruner seemed out of immediate danger.

Appeals were taken for him to Palestine courts and to the privy council in London, Britain's highest court, but all were rejected, except one, which was reported still pending before the privy council.

BRITISH PROBE BOMB THREAT

War Office Warning Follows Finding of Home-Made Weapon.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 16—Scotland Yard officers rushed to the war office late today following a telephone threat that the building was to be blown up—threat that came a few hours after a home-made bomb timed to explode this morning, was found in a branch of the colonial office.

Nothing suspicious was found at the war office and police were unable immediately to link the telephoned threat with the actual leaving of explosives at the colonial office, possibly in retaliation for the hanging of convicted underground agent Dov Bela Gruner at dawn today in Palestine.

A colonial office spokesman said the blast attempt was "part of the Jewish terrorist activities against this country."

24 Sticks of Explosive

Police said that the bomb was composed of 24 sticks of a French explosive resembling gelignite—not as powerful as they believed at first when they reported the ~~bomb could have wrecked the en~~tire four-story building.

Police, who removed the bomb for examination by home office experts, found the fuse partially burned, indicating that an attempt to set off the explosives had misfired.

The British press association said there were indications the fuse had been ignited but the bomb apparently had misfired.

"More Than Coincidence"

A colonial office spokesman, asked whether he thought there was any connection between Gruner's death and the planting of the explosives, declared:

"It looks as if it is more than a coincidence."

Other observers recalled that Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish extremist organization, had threatened vengeance for the execution of any of its "soldiers."

The bomb, wrapped as a brown paper parcel, was found by a staff member in a women's lavatory on the second floor of a four-story building used by the colonial office departments. The building is a short distance from the prime minister's residence at No. 10 Downing street.

About 100 persons normally work in the building where the bomb was found, but only a few were in the section where it was discovered.

Other government departments were warned immediately to search their offices.

Several Visitors

The office near which the bomb was found is visited by several callers each day. Police said without comment that among the visitors are usually some persons interested in exports to Palestine.

Four of Scotland Yard's senior officials were placed in charge of the investigation.

Telephoned threats against the colonial office, the houses of parliament and other buildings were received several months ago, but prior to the finding of the bomb today there had been no untoward developments.

The threats followed announcements by Palestine underground leaders that they would carry their "war against the British" into Britain itself.

Scotland Yard investigators said the bomb might have been placed by a woman visitor or might have been planted during the night by a person who gained entrance through a window. The explosives were discovered by a cleaning woman.

Girl Dies In Fire at Home

12-Year-Old Daughter of Ohio Wesleyan Caretaker Perishes.

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., April 16—A 12-year-old girl was burned fatally and her father was injured critically today in a fire which leveled the caretaker's house of Butler farm, an Ohio Wesleyan university property at nearby Stratford.

The body of Ruth Bell had not been found in the smoking debris by midday.

Her father, Edgar Bell, and a brother, Charles, 21, were hospitalized here. The son was described as in "poor condition" from burns about the hands and face. The father was near death.

Mrs. Bell, mother of the dead girl, escaped injury, as did a brother, James, 19.

The university said the fire started when the father threw kerosene on a kitchen stove at 7 a. m.

Loss was estimated at $6,000.

The caretaker's home stood near the farm's mansion, which is used by the university for social functions. It was undamaged.

BIG FOUR STILL STYMIED AFTER STALIN PARLEY

Observers Believe Marshall's Talk with Soviet Chief Failed.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, April 16—Secretary of State Marshall's 90-minute talk with Prime Minister Stalin last night was understood today to have failed to break any of the deadlocks which have tied the council of foreign ministers in knots over the whole range of issues.

The chief value of the talk from Marshall's viewpoint was believed to have been the presentation to the Soviet leader of a frank and unvarnished statement of American policy in relation to Germany, Europe and the whole trouble area of United States-Russian political and diplomatic conflict.

The secretary clamped tight secrecy on the American delegation respecting his trip to the Kremlin. He was believed, however, to have reported the result of his meeting in his daily report to President Truman.

On Marshall Request

It was disclosed officially that the meeting was arranged on Marshalls initiative in response to a request he made several days ago. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith and Charles Bohlen, interpreter, accompanied the secretary to the old fortress, which is the Soviet union's seat of government.

Unless the Marshall-Stalin talk produced some wholly new and unexpected basis for agreement which has yet to be brought to light, the widespread belief here is that the Moscow conference now nearing its end—will be followed by intensified big power rivalry in Germany and elsewhere which will serve to widen the already bad east-west split.

An official spokesman said Marshall made a request to see Stalin the latter part of last week through U. S. Ambassador Walter B. Smith to the Soviet foreign ministry.

Lasts 90 Minutes

The spokesman said the meeting lasted 90 minutes and declared that nothing further would be released about the conference unless Marshall gave it out himself. There were indications that the time of the meeting was fixed by the Kremlin as late as yesterday.

Marshall, accompanied by U. S. Ambassador Walter B. Smith, motored to the Kremlin at 10 p. m. last night and was back an hour and 45 minutes later.

There he permitted only the barest announcement that the long-expected meeting had been held at last. Marshall had been in Moscow 37 days and was the last of the visiting foreign ministers to see the Soviet leader.

The announcement did not say exactly how long Marshall was with Stalin and did not state what has discussed. Presumably the conference lasted about 90 minutes. Marshall was believed to have written a report of the conference for President Truman immediately.

There was no doubt among those familiar with the secretary's plans, however, that he probably had a brass tacks talk with Stalin, seeking not so much a reversal or modification of Soviet policies in the council of foreign ministers but attempting rather to emphasize the seriousness with which the United States views the present world situation and its international follow through on such stern policies as those in Turkey and Greece.

(The Moscow radio, heard in London, said Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and N. V. Novikov, Soviet ambassador to Washington, also attended the Kremlin talk.)

A dramatic setting was furnished for the Kremlin session by the failure of the foreign ministers to agree only two or three hours before on an American-sponsored proposal for a 40-year, four-power pact to keep Germany disarmed.

Chain of Blasts Raze Texas City On Gulf Coast

By The Associated Press

TEXAS CITY, Tex., April 16—The worst explosion in Texas gulf coast history rocked a hundred mile area, killed an estimated 350, injured possibly 1,000 more, and virtually razed this city of 15,000 today.

Poison gas was reported to be infiltrating the still-burning city at noon. The national guard was called out in the area.

Doctors, nurses, police and firemen from Galveston, Houston and other nearby cities were rushed here.

The chain of explosions began on the Grand Camp, a French ship loaded with nitrate. It spread to the multi-million dollar Monsanto Chemical Corp. plant, now reported a complete ruin following the explosion and fire.

Telephone Communications Disrupted

The death and casualty estimate was made by the Galveston Tribune, which rushed newsmen to the area. Telephone communications were disrupted by the explosion, the few remaining lines being clogged with emergency calls for help.

The Grand Camp, destroyed with all men aboard by the explosion, according to the Tribune, caught fire early today. Several hundred curious gathered at the docks to watch the fire.

When the explosion followed, many on the docks were killed. Steel beams were hurled over the city, some as far as 15 miles away.

Many of the dead were Monsanto workers.

Port Arthur and Orange, about 100 miles distant, said the blast was audible there, and buildings rocked. At Pelly, 27 miles distant, a man said the sound "hurt my eardrums." Palestine, 150 miles from here, claimed to have heard the sound also.

Scene of Chaos

The scene at Texas City was one of chaos. First eyewitness account came from W. H. Sanberg, vice president of the Texas City Terminal Railway Company. He had left the Grand Camp just five minutes before the initial explosion.

The following explosions, he said, jumped from the ship to the Monsanto chemical plant "which simply doesn't exist any more" to the Stone Oil Company and possibly others. One piece of steel said to be from the Republic Oil Company was picked up two miles away.

"The concussions was simply terrible. It blew out windows in every home in town. It blew in ceilings in business buildings. It cracked new buildings from end to end. Doors were blown from their hinges."

He said the devastation was terrible.

Fires Still Rage

Fires were still raging hours after the explosion, and no water was available to fight them.

Albert Nichols, Harris county sheriff's county dispatcher, said Texas City officials have radioed Fort Crockett, Galveston, that poison gas was infiltrating the city.

Other Texas City industries—bagging, petroleum, sudphur, shipping, tin and others—were reported burning and fire equipment from Galveston, Houston and other cities, augmented by highway patrolmen, police, sheriffs deputies, were helping maintain order as citizens walked out, dazed and stunned by the disaster.

Stone buildings in the center of town were leveled, the Galveston Tribune said. Residents were being evacuated to avoid danger from further explosions.

High and causeways were blocked by Texas City residents who work in Galveston, rushing home to help.

Police Chief W. F. Laddish of Texas City told Houston officers by telephone people were walking the streets in a daze and that the Texas City hall, a mile from the explosion, "was demolished." He asked for all possible doctors and nurses, even "just ordinary citizens, just so they have hands to help in rescuing the injured."

The extent of the explosion was indicated by a report from Palestine, Texas, 160 miles to the north. Mrs. J. C. Colwick, who lives on a hill near Palestine, said she heard the explosion and that the house shuddered twice as if there had been an earthquake.

Poison Gas Reported In Explosion-Rocked City

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON, Tex., April 16—Albert Nichols, Harris county sheriff's office dispatcher, said Texas City officials have radioed Fort Crockett, Galveston, that poison gas is reported infiltrating the city following a ship explosion there.

The dispatcher said the Texas City officials had asked for all available gas masks.

The officials also reported "several hundred more stretchers and for all available morphine in this part of the country," the dispatcher stated.

Injured Man Gives Eye-Witness Account of Texas City Blast

By The Associated Press

TEXAS CITY, Tex., April 16—Bloody from head to foot and wearing an improvised bandage about his cut head, W. H. Sanberg, vice president of the Texas City Terminal Railway Company, gave the first eyewitness account of the explosion which may have killed as many as 200 persons.

The first explosion was on the French ship Grand Camp which he had just left five minutes previously. Sanberg's office was near the ship.

The ship Sanberg believed was carrying ammunition, but was at Texas City reportedly to take on a cargo of fertilizer.

Ship Discovered Ablaze

Early today, Sanberg related, the ship was discovered ablaze.

Live steam was immediately applied to the fire, Sanberg said, but it failed to get it under control.

Then Sanberg said, the ship was towed out in a stream but before it could be gotten away, the first terrific explosion occurred.

Sanberg said it was reported the boat was carrying a load of ammunition. This rumor was not confirmed, but he said "I feel safe in saying it did carry ammunition."

Sanberg told Pool that he had left the doomed ship for his nearby office in less than five minutes after it blew up, and he immediately began putting in emergency telephone calls.

"When the explosion first occurred," Sanberg said, "I jumped under my roll top desk."

Plant Doesn't Exist

Pool said the Monsanto Chemical company "simply doesn't exist," and he added "the devastation here is the most terrible thing you ever saw. You can't imagine it. As I speak I feel there are thousands dead and injured."

The explosions, Pool said, jumped in one, two, three order from the ship to the Monsanto Chemical to the Stone Oil Company and possibly to others, since the heavy piece of steel from the Republic Oil Company was picked up two miles away.

"The concussions was simply terrible," Pool said. "It blew windows out of every home in town. It blew in ceilings in business buildings. It cracked new buildings from end to end.

"In the M. E. Agee drug store every clerk was injured. The explosion even blew doors off their hinges. The explosion was felt in La Porte and the blaze could be seen from Seabrook as I drove toward Houston to reach a telephone," Pool said.

217 Draw Job Benefits Here

130 Are Veterans and 87 Are Unemployed Individuals, Report Shows.

An average of 217 persons a week received unemployment benefits in Marion county during March, Manager Fred B. Scherff of the Marion local office of the bureau of unemployment compensation, said today.

Of this number, 130 were unemployed veterans receiving $20 a week under the federal servicemen's readjustment act, and 87 were unemployed individuals covered by the state unemployment compensation law. The average number receiving benefits in March was 10 per cent less than the average in February. In February, an average of 241 persons a week, including 141 unemployed veterans and 100 unemployed non-veterans, were drawing benefits.

Payments to those unemployed in March totaled $16,698.82, with $7,639.00 going to unemployed veterans and $9,059.82 being paid to unemployed persons in state-law payments. Even though there was a drop in the number of persons receiving benefits in March under the number for February, payments in March were 1.3 per cent greater than in February, when $16,482.55 was paid.

Local statistics were contrary to statistics for the entire state, Mr. Scherff pointed out. For the state, benefit payments increased 17.4 per cent in March over the amount of benefits paid in February, and the average weekly number of benefit recipients for the state totaled 62,288 in March, or 11.1 per cent greater than the number of recipients in February.

New claims, which reflect the volume of new unemployment in the area, declined 29.9 per cent in March from the number of new claims taken in February. In March, 94 new claims were filed, of which 21 were filed by veterans under the federal servicemen's readjustment act, and 73 were filed by non veterans under the state bureau of unemployment compensation law. Of the 73 non veterans who filed claims, 29 were females.

Truman Wants Government To Be Able To Limit Arms Buying

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

James Marlow

[illegible] INGTON, April 16 — [illegible] Truman wants this gov- [illegible] be able to decide what [illegible] or can't buy arms [illegible] means We can help arm [illegible] we consider a friend and [illegible] arms [illegible] one [illegible] oer an [illegible] man [illegible] con- [illegible] e the [illegible] that [illegible] law. [illegible] est has [illegible] history [illegible] and [illegible] big [illegible] another [illegible] of how deeply we have [illegible] nto world affairs and [illegible] we have moved from our [illegible] isolation [illegible] World War I this coun- [illegible] out of the League of [illegible] vert isolationist. It stayed that way up to World War II.

The idea was Let's not do anything that will get us into another war

This idea had big help in the 1930's from a senate committee—headed by Senator Nye. North Dakota Republican — which investigated munitions

Arms-Makers Blamed

The committee helped convince the country that the big arms-makers had a large share in getting us into World War I The argument was:

By huge loans and sales of goods and arms to the Allies in World War I we had an interest in seeing them whip Germany and finally pitched in ourselves to bail them out.

The Nye committee insisted we needed laws to prevent anything like that from happening again. So congress passed the neutrality act in 1935

What it meant was When war broke out, the President would ban arms shipments to both sides.

President Roosevelt did this in 1935 when Mussolini's Fascist Italy attacked and conquered Ethiopia, slaughtering those primitive people.

Civil War Ignored

But the act didn't say anything about banning arms shipments to both sides in a civil war. Civil war broke out in Spain in 1936.

Franco's Fascists attacked, and finally conquered, the legitimate, loyalist government of Spain.

President Roosevelt in 1937 asked congress to fix the neutrality act so it would cover civil wars, too. Congress did.

So Mr. Roosevelt banned arms shipments to either side in the Spanish civil war, even though we recognized the Loyalist government as legitimate.

But Russia, Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy sent men and supplies into Spain, Russia to the Loyalists, the other two to Franco.

So Spain and Ethiopia were a testing ground for World War II. It showed how slow the democracies would be in stopping aggression

Hitler On March

Meanwhile, Hitler was dragging Europe closer to general war. Nazi Germany had been arming furiously.

It was far better armed than Britain or France when World War II broke out Sept. 1, 1939.

It was now plain that the Fascists were out for blood This also was plain.

Our neutrality act so far had made Fascists' victims easier victims

Although it had deprived them and the Fascists of arms, it hurt the Fascists less because the Fascists were always better armed

In this way our policy of impartiality—giving arms to neither side in a fight—had helped Fascism.

Neutrality Act Changed

Late in September, 1939, Mr Roosevelt asked congress to change the neutrality act. It did The new act did this

It permitted any nation to buy arms here, provided it paid cash for them and could carry them away in its own ships.

This was called a cash-and-carry program It still was supposed to be impartial. Actually it helped and was intended to help Britain and France and hurt Germany

Since Britain and France controlled the seas they could buy arms here and carry them home in their own ships Germany was cut off from us

But that neutrality act of 1939 still stands Any nation can get arms here, or material for making arms, by paying cash. It's still supposedly impartial

Now President Truman wants it changed by congress so the government can decide who can or can't get arms here. Like this:

The government could let arms go to a nation it considered friendly or peaceful but keep them from a nation it considered warlike or unfriendly.

In this way the government wouldn't be tied hand and foot and, by its own law of impartiality, be forced to help a possible enemy or aggressor.

Ohioan Presides Over House Labor Debate

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 16—Rep Brown (R-Ohio), is presiding over the house during debate on the controversial labor bill

"This is one of the most important pieces of legislation to come before this congress," Brown said in an interview "And the speaker gave me a real job in requesting me to preside during the debate"

POWER PLAN ACTION DELAYED AT GALION

Industries Propose To Buy Current from Ohio Utility.

Special to The Star

GALION, April 16—No action was taken by city council Tuesday night regarding the proposal of Galion manufacturers that hte city grant a franchise to one or more industrial plants to contract directly with the Ohio Power Co. and bring power lines into their plants for a limited period of time.

The proposal had been made by Galion manufacturers that the city hour public meeting held a week ago, April 8, at which time they pointed out their immediate need for more power to expand their plants. At that time the manufacturers had asked the city to withhold its contract for a diesel unit until a study of power needs had been made In a closed session between Mayor Amann and top officials of four Galion manufacturing plants, after the public meeting, an agreement was reached that, with the approval of council, a franchise would be granted to one or more plants to bring in outside power while the Galion municipal light and power plant was increasing its capacity.

In the meantime, the board of control awarded a contract for the purchase and installation of a 1136 kilowatt Diesel unit at the light plant, at a cost of $108 000, to be used as a standby generator in case of emergency for operation of the water system, hospital and disposal plant in case of failure of the steam turbine generators at the light plant.

A special session between the light committee, council and Mayor William Amann, was held after the regular meeting of council, Tuesday night, to discuss with the consulting engineer, W. C. Kammerer, future needs of the municipal plant in order to produce more power Kammerer explained that a new switch gear will have to be installed before there is any increase in voltage This will cost approximately $150,000, and take nearly two years to install, he said

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

TRIBUTE TO JIMMY WRIGHT

Editor of The Star: Jimmy Wright was living for many years along the Scioto river in Ohio, near what the old settlers called the iron bridge, northwest of Green Camp. A lot of his time was spent at the Alexander Porter home. Mr. Porter owned 200 acres of some of the best land in Marion county, a corn country near the old iron bridge.

Many a night Jimmy Wright spent at his home, then go deer hunting with Mr. Porter and many a nice deer they brought in too.

Alexander Porter raised four daughters on this farm who have all passed on. Their names were Mrs. Maude Boxwell of Green Camp, Mrs. Mahala Hopkins of Marion, Mrs. Lucy Court of Owens Station and Mrs. Suprona Stauffer of DeCliff. Their children are scattered over Illinois and Ohio.

Jimmy Wright left what money he had to Green Camp township for school purposes and he is buried near Green Camp along the banks of the Scioto river. His grave has an iron fence around it. He was a wonderful man.

This is one of the Alexander Porter's grandchildren and this was told to me by my mother, Mrs. Stauffer, his youngest daughter, who passed away in May, 1928, at the age of 65. I hope the good citizens of Marion county appreciate the good Jimmy Wright did for the county he lived in.

Smith at Harding High school, including a self-addressed, stamped envelope. They will then be returned to the purchaser by mail. The tickets must be received by Mr. Smith not later than Friday of this week and they will be mailed out Monday night.

A student matinee performance of the play will be given at 2:30 at the theater for students of Harding, Edison, Vernon and Central. No seats will be reserved and the admission will be 40 cents. The price for the evening is 65 cents.

Rehearsals are well underway on the production and are being held in the Harding gymnasium. Mrs. Virginia Walker, speech instructor at Harding, is directing the play.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

The dinner-meeting at Hotel Talbott was attended by nearly 90 Rotary members, their wives, and other guests.

The speaker, who was introduced by Harold McKay, said that the railroads are losing money now in spite of the unprecedented job done during the war, because the are caught between the floor of rising prices and the ceiling of fixed rates. Watching and Waiting

IT'S MORE surprising to learn that Henry Wallace isn't being booed by his British listeners than to learn that he deserves it for making an issue of the Truman administration's foreign policy in his talks in Great Britain.

It wasn't this government's idea for the British to fold up and obligate the United States, as the only other naval power, to take over responsibility for security in the Mediterranean basin—the thing that Wallace is describing as "ruthless imperialism."

His antics are no more alarming than they have been in the past. His countrymen are watching and waiting—watching for signs that the British know how to handle an American citizen who goes abroad to criticize his government, waiting for signs that the United States government knows how to handle Wallace.

A federal law prescribes a $5,000 fine and three years in the cooler for American citizens who get delusions of grandeur and impersonate the state department. Wallace was thrown out of the cabinet for talking out of his turn, and he will need to be extremely careful to keep from going to jail for the same mistake.

What he says is unimportant; his views are well known. But what is done about what he says is important, under the circumstances. The British government and the United States government are being put on the spot by a man who seems to believe he alone has the answers. Mr. Wallace is guilty of bad judgement and may be guilty of something more serious—entering into consultation with spokesmen for foreign governments to influence the outcome of a controversy between them and the United States.

All Over but the Legislating

LAWS curbing the more flagrant excesses of the unions which are guilty of them would not hurt the labor movement. Spokesmen for unions who are trying to make it look as if labor's rights were involved are falling back on the same kind of claim made by the business trusts when the time came to clip their wings. Actually, legitimate business profited by restrictions on the minority which had been abusing its power.

Public debate on the propriety of federal legislation to clarify the rights of unions is over. There are going to be important revisions of labor laws. Congress isn't deciding whether to pass or not to pass these revisions, but how and when. The fact its mind must be made up with one national strike in progress and several more paralyzing strikes in prospect is a clear indication that legislation is overdue.

Who's on First?

THE BASEBALL season opens with Jackie Robinson, the first Negro player in a major league uniform. While a great deal of to-do has been made about Jackie's ascent to the big-time, Negro baseball players are not unusual. The pitching feats of Satchel Paige are almost legendary. The Montreal club, where Robinson was tested, has a Negro catcher of whom great things are expected.

Indeed, Negroes are prominent in every important sport. In boxing, for instance, Joe Louis has won a host of friends and well-wishers by virtue of his great skill and his modesty. If First Baseman Robinson would have a model to follow in his daily life, let him look to Louis. If he becomes to baseball what Louis is to boxing, his place in baseball's Hall of Fame is assured.

Why the Mines Are Operating

COAL production is back to normal, although for a time it appeared the nation might be in for another tieup, with accompanying stentorian trumpetings from John L. Lewis. There are two reasons why this stalemate evaporated into thin air.

First, more and more miners, who have been called off the job three times within a year, were returning to work against Mr. Lewis' orders.

Second, and more important, Federal Judge Goldsborough, at a hearing last Thursday, said Mr. Lewis' remarks and actions indicated "an utterly contemptuous attitude toward the court orders and that he will go as far as he dares to disobey them." Judge Goldsborough holds $2,800,000 of union funds, part of the $3,500,000 contempt fine, which he may return when he believes the union has purged itself of contempt. If the judge sees no signs of repentance by April 24, the union, already hard-pressed financially, may forfeit this money.

Mr. Lewis has been in union affairs long enough to know a trend when he sees one. Also, the prospect of seeing $2,800,000 of union funds go irretrievably down the drain must have provided quite an incentive for ending the stoppage.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Mallon Looks for Cause of Price Increases.

WASHINGTON, April 15 — It even costs 50 per cent more to be dead. The bill came recently for the annual care of the cemetery plot of our family. The card was printed except for the blank spot where the amount to be paid was inserted in ink — amount $9.10. It has always been $6.10. No explanation accompanied the increase, so I wrote to ascertain if a mistake had been made, or if the cost had really been increased that much, the reason for same.

The cemetery manager wrote back saying the increase was correct and it had been decided "because of our increased labor costs, as well as increased costs in equipment and general maintenance."

That started me thinking. Mr. Truman said something about relaxing the antitrust laws to keep prices down and his economic adviser talked about imposing a new excess profits tax. I wonder if they are even thinking in the right direction. They do not seem to know even the reason why prices have skyrocketed.

Now here in this cemetery plot is a typical case which any one can understand. In fact it is a perfect case because the cemetery does not even have a profit. It is operated by a church. The cemetery board fixes the charge on a basis of costs.

Searches for Cause

Well about all they have to do to a cemetery is to cut the grass. The cost of lawn mowers has gone up, of course. I paid $31.50 for one the other day and $2.50 more for the grass tray. But the cemetery people only have to buy a small number of lawn mowers, say 5 or even 10. No matter how many or what they paid, the total increased cost of their cemetery operation could not have gone up much on that account. If ten lawnmowers went up $10, the increased cost of operation would only be $100. With hundreds and perhaps thousands of plots in that cemetery, an increased cost of $100 would require the board only to increase the charge a few cents to each person.

Well, what other "equipment" do they need? I do not believe they even have to buy a hose. I do not think you have to figure much on that because the cemetery generally relies on God's rain for that, and the cost of rain has not increased. Yet if they bought a hose or any other equipment of that nature (I can not imagine what it might be) the cost would average out to less than a cent, perhaps a few mills, to each plot owner.

Then why in the world did the board have to make as much as approximately a 50 per cent increase in the charge? The obvious answer you can not get away from is the other item the manager mentioned—"increased labor costs." The cost of common labor, the least skilled labor, seems to have forced practically the entire extent of the increase.

Factor Overlooked

Well now the President and his economic advisers have not thought of this at all. They never mentioned it. They did not propose to do anything about the real cause of the trouble. In fact they talked along exactly the opposite line. Mr. Truman said there would have to be another general wage increase if prices went any higher. Good Lord, that very thing is practically the whole cause of the trouble disclosed unmistakably in this perfect example of a nonprofit making cemetery operated by no more greedy a profiteer than a church. But you can see it everywhere. You can confirm it in similar examples you see daily all around you. Remember the doubling and trebling of building costs over estimates as disclosed in recent columns from Our Town. How much of that was due to increases in cost of materials, and how much to labor? Why the workers laid off the day in one instance which would have brought them double pay at $32 a day. Now who was the greedy profiteer there?

The President pined for the good old days of OPA and said something about how right he had been then. Why OPA would not have touched the cause of these price increases. All OPA did was to keep the good things off the market, put a lot of things you need to live in the black market and all that, while the same administration actually boosted wages.

It did not treat with the real cause of the problem, as any one must in order to handle the matter intelligently or even try to reach a solution which might work. Neither are the President nor his economic advisers as far as I can see—yet.

A Limited Field In Which To Work

A Los Angeles company is specializing in hand-painted bathing suits.

That's one art exhibit which will attract more than a little passing interest.

Soon the roads will be filled with art lovers, en route to the beaches to study the latest techniques.

It'll sure be a change for the wolves, going out to see somebody else's etchings.

Painting bathing suits will be a great opportunity for artists... especially those with a flair for miniatures.

The pay may not be so much for painting blue forget-me-nots on a bare-midriff model. But can you imagine better working conditions?

Modern bathing suits have been shrinking faster than British spheres of influence. No longer do they provide what is known, in insurance parlance, as "extended coverage."

In fact, if the trend toward nudity in beach-wear continues, hand-painting bathing suits may well become a highly specialized profession, like that of the carnival character who could write the Lord's Prayer on the head of a pin.

Atomic Age Airborne Power

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON—Swift striking, heavily armed divisions of airborne troops are being provided for in atomic age defense plans.

Bulwarking regular Army airborne divisions will be an "M-day" force of Organized Reserve and National Guard airborne divisions.

Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, commander of the First Airborne Army in World War II, says: "The war demonstrated the effectiveness of these airborne divisions, and our peacetime structure is recognizing this fact."

Parks, now chief of the Army's public relations division, says emphasis on flying armies is pointed up by the fact that, of two effective divisions now in the United States, one is airborne—the 82nd at Fort Bragg, N. C.

War Department strategists have contended that airborne troops would be of paramount importance should the United States be subjected to a sudden attack by long range rocket missiles, airplanes and airborne troops. They would be needed to strike at the bases from which such attacks are launched as well as to help to defend and maintain order in the attacked areas of the United States.

Needed for Arctic

Some generals contend, after observing tests on men and equipment in Army ground forces tests in Alaska, that only an airborne army could operate in the subzero cold of the Arctic. The temperature solidifies lubricants, makes the starting of gasoline engines difficult and narrows the physical effort of soldiers to the mere business of keeping alive, with no energy left for fighting or moving.

While details of plans for the National Guard are not yet ready, five Organized Reserve airborne divisions have been authorized. Two—the 100th and 80th—already are activated.

The 100th, redesignated from the "Century" infantry division which fought in the Rhineland and Central Europe in World War II, has its headquarters at Louisville, Ky. The 80th, the "Blue Ridge" infantry division, which fought in Europe in both wars, is based at Richmond, Va.

Some Units Ready

Some units of the three remaining divisions also have been activated. One is in the 1st Army Area, embracing the northeastern states. It will be designated as the 98th Infantry Division, but in event of mobilization will be trained and used as an airborne division. The other two are the 108th, in the 3rd (southeastern states) Army Area, and the 84th, in the 5th (northcentral states) Army Area.

Because former airborne officers and men are so widely scattered, training of airborne reserve divisions will parallel that of reserve infantry outfits—100 hours a year in two-hour weekly home or armory periods, plus two weeks of active duty summer field training. Until congress approves pending appropriation proposals, home training will be without pay, although pay will be made for field training.

Men assigned to Organized Reserve airborne divisions will be given opportunity to attend courses at the Army's Fort Bragg airborne base as far as facilities will allow.

The regular Army has one other airborne division—the 11th, in Japan—in existence in addition to the 82nd at Fort Bragg, now building up to full authorized strength. The 11th, however, maintains only an organizational form. Its chief duties are those of occupation.

The Army organized its first airborne unit as a staff division in the ground forces five years ago, although members of a test platoon had made the first mass parachute jump a year earlier. From this beginning the parachute and glider units which spearheaded some of the major battles in Europe and the Southwest Pacific developed.

Earlier this year the Army disclosed plans to expand airborne divisions to the size of a regular infantry division of between 16,000 and 18,000 men. Officials said today these plans had been recalled for further study.

As initially organized, an American airborne division contained between 8,000 and 9,000 combat soldiers. However, when the time came to use them in action it was discovered that corps commanders expected an airborne division to hold the same ground assigned to a full strength infantry division.

Therefore it was necessary to attach to the airborne division such components as artillery, light armor and more ground transport. The original plans for expanding the size of the airborne division contemplated including these elements as part of the division, with the equipment to be moved by air along with the personnel.

Pattern in Middle East

By STEWART ALSOP

CAIRO, April 16—Here in Cairo it is less difficut to see the wood for the trees than in the rest of the Middle East. Africa is the center around which the new British imperial pattern is crystallizing, and Egypt is the bridge between Africa and the Arab world. And in the Sudanese question now agitating Anglo-Egyptian relations, one can observe both the character of the new British imperialism and the effects of the new nationalism that is appearing everywhere among the Arabic peoples.

This week, for the first time in 65 years, there is no British soldier in the whole fertile triangle of the Egyptian delta between Cairo, Alexandria and Port Said. The Egyptian attitude is jubilant. Salutes by innumerable guns, long speeches and hoisting of the Egyptian flag by the fat, pleasure-loving Egyptian King Farouk over the vast Victorian Barracks of Kasr El Nil have marked the occasion of the British withdrawal.

Yet already some of the ruling class Egyptians, sitting nervously on top of the miserable and simmering Egyptian masses and confronted by Russian ambitions in the Middle East, are beginning to feel a trifle lonely. Among them there is already a noticeable tendency to cry like suddenly repentant lovers, "Stop, stop, it's all been a terrible mistake."

Possible Compromise

These internal hesitations within Egyptian government circles may well increase and may make possible a compromise with the British before the Egyptian case is taken before the United Nations. Yet the official Egyptian position still calls for the immediate and unconditional evacuation of the British from the Suez canal and the permanent union of the Sudan with Egypt "whether," according to the British, "the Sudanese want it or not."

Prime Minister Nokrashy Pasha, a large, genial man who is both honest (a fact usually mentioned in tones of hushed amazement) and stubborn (the British call him "bloody-minded" (shows no signs of retreating from his position.

There has been much oratory and persuasion on both sides and there will doubtless be more. The Egyptians talk lovingly of their little brothers, the Sudanese. They insist that no more than Iran with Russia can Egypt make a treaty with England while British troops are still on Egyptian soil. The British maintain with what appears to be real sincerity that they cannot abandon the Sudanese to the tender mercies of Egyptian exploitation while the Sudanese themselves have had no opportunity to express their views.

Justifiable Pride

They point with real pride to the efficiency and selflessness of British administration in the Sudan, a pride which, in the opinion of qualified American observers, is wholly justified. As for the Suez canal, the British point out that British troops guard the canal in accordance with the treaty with Egypt, that they have already offered to evacuate the canal by 1949 (while has seemed to many Englishmen like a good big slice of what Winston Churchill called "the clattering down of the British Empire") and that thus the parallel with the Iranian case is ridiculous.

The arguments and counter arguments of the Egyptians and the British could easily fill a number of very dull volumes. But behind all this passionate persuasion, there are certain simple realities.

The Egyptians fear that as long as the control of the headwaters of the Nile is in British hands, Egyptian independence will be as illusory as when "advice" of British advisers to the Egyptian government had the force of law or when in the recent war British tanks surrounded the palace and the British Ambassador named a new cabinet.

For the merest whisper that the Nile waters, without which Egypt would be just so much desert, might be diverted could bring any Egyptian government to heel. The demand for the immediate evacuation of the Suez Canal area is widely regarded as an after thought and added bagaining point.

Vital Parts

The essentials of the British position are equally simple. For the Sudan and, to a lesser extent, the canal area, are vital parts of the emerging British strategic pattern for the defense of the Middle East against further Russian encroachment. The details of this pattern are unknown, probably even to the planners in London, but its outlines are reasonably clear.

Forward areas — air bases in Habbaniyea, in Iraq, in Trans-jordan—will be lightly held. The canal itself will be evacuated but air fields and, above all, radar installations must be maintained in the area for quick re-occupation in case of war.

The Sudan will constitute the perimeter of the main defensive area. There is no present intention to build great bases in the Sudan, but neither is there any intention to risk control of the Sudan by some future pro-Soviet Egyptian government. For, just south of the Sudan lies the heart of the British strategic defensive area. Kenya will be its center, linked by air and road to a supply base in Nigeria on the west coast of Africa.

There is nothing Blimpish about this plan. It recognizes the new realities of the immensely long-range plane and the guided missile. It is designed to make the Soviet rulers think twice before risking military adventures in the Middle East.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Sleeper Service

What wartime strains, deteriorations and shortages did to the American railroads is well known, and among those yelling loudest for their alleviation are the users of the so-called "sleeper service." We have taken a few over-night trips lately and the only proper title would be "Through the Concrete Mixer by Pogo Stick." We now know that it is possible to scramble and unscramble the egg in one operation.

* * *

The names of the roads involved shall be forever secret, as they are good roads well operated and, with equipment no worse than any other's. It is our fixed conviction that the trucks under the sleeper on our most recent ride were on wrong side up, that they carried grappling hooks which became entangled with the railroad ties every forty-five seconds and that the couplings, air hoses, wheels, &c., had been through Hiroshima.

* * *

This correspondent has had trips on which sleep was a transient thing, of course, but we still think that this time we rode a broom through a rock pile. We were going away for a breakdown. And in that "sleeper" we got it!

* * *

The engineer, it could be, was an old snap-the-whip boy. It is possible he was an unreformed motorcyclist and that his theme was "Let us then be up and doing with a heart for any fate." It is possible, too, that those men in overalls who meet all trains and go over the chassis with hammers are short of hammers. We heard a rumor that there is a hammer shortage and that they now do their tappings with requisitions for them.

* * *

The one thing of which we are positive is that no paratroopers ever spent tougher periods in space than passengers on that sleeper. "Good night," we said to the missus as we climbed into the upper. "Sleep tight," she answered. Those words will always stand as the most ironical the little woman ever uttered.

* * *

The engineer must have thrown everything into high and the train must have entered the loop-the-loop area at that moment. Wham! . . . Whirrrrrshsh! . . . Gazammamox-x-x-x-x! . . . Phidinkus! . . Veroop! . . Block that kick! . . All hands to the small boats.

* * *

We found something in our left ear. It was a golf ball precipitated from our golf bag on the rack across the compartment! Presently the contour of our bunk changed abruptly and we realized we were in the wash basin!

The voice of the little woman came to us from the upper. We knew she had retired in a lower. "How did you get up there?" we asked weakly. "Rocket gun," she replied simply

* * *

And so through the night rode Paul Revere. Once a body hurtled through the compartment. It was merely a traveler from next door. We asked him to stop for a visit. "No, thanks," he said. "I can't get my landing gear down."

* * *

Once, around 4 a. m. golf bags, hat boxes, typewriters, handbags, glasses, icewater tank and cash customers landed in one heap under the sink with a terrific crash.

The porter opened the door and said "You got it!"

"What?" we asked.

"Jackpot," he replied.

Nipped in the Bud

By TRUMAN TWILL

The grim fate of the Collyer brothers, who apparently fell victim to a houseful of junk, has started an epidemic of grim stories about people who need protection against their own clutter. It has started a grimmer epidemic of busybodies who want to furnish the protection, but there is no way to stop that.

The thing of immediate importance is to nip these accumulations of clutter in the bud, before they get out of control. As an act of public service, we intend to mention this to several persons as tactfully as we can. Warning notes have been prepared, as follows:

* * *

Friend Wife: Improbable as it may seem, it could happen that a man fumbling in a clothes closet might pull out the key box in the pile on the clothes closet shelf and suffocate in a welter of old hats, scraps of fabric and fur, boxes of buttons, zippers, costume jewelry, dresses that are too short or too long and the 500-odd pounds of miscellany that wives keep on closet shelves.

Repeatedly,
T. T.

* * *

Friend Joe: This will call your attention to certain immutable laws of physics which make it certain that it is only a matter of time until the stacks of stuff on your desk awaiting your attention will engulf you helplessly in a cataclysmic deluge of pamphlets, magazines, unread Congressional Records, books, mail catalogues, descriptive folders, newspaper clippings and memos to take home a loaf of bread.

Sincerely,
T. T.

* * *

Friend Margaret: Have you ever considered the possibility that the refrigerator might topple over some day and mangle that pretty figure of yours horribly under a shower of empty mason jars, skillets, pie pans, old newspapers, tin cans, boxes of soap chips, broken cups, tack hammers, scouring powder, picture wire, milk bottles and soft drink bottles? Think of yourself lying on the floor, marked for life with livid scars and get rid of that junk now.

Forebodingly,
T. T.

Newspaper Sales Rise

Despite increased prices and newsprint shortages, newspapers of the United States and Canada averaged 53,000,000 copies each week-day for the six-month period ending Sept. 1946. This means a gain of 2,500,000 copies a day, or 5.3 per cent, over 1945; a gain of 10,000,000 copies a day, or 24.2 per cent over 1940; and a gain of 24,000,000 copies a day, or 82.1 per cent, over 1920.

New records also were registered in Sunday circulation, with 45,500,000 for the same six-month period ending Sept. 30, 1946. That's a gain of more than 4,000,000 over 1945 and a percentage rise of 9.9 per cent. Sunday circulation averaged only 17,000,000 in 1920 but has risen steadily since then.

Boyle Wishes Rita Hayworth Bon Voyage

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, April 16—Rita Hayworth leaned back lazily in the chair, hitched up a stocking, wrinkled her nose like a rabbit, yawned half-wearily and said:

"Whew, mind if I put my feet on the chair?"

She put them there. Never saw a pair of legs fit a chair better. We were in her hotel room—alone.

Alone except for four vases full of flowers, [illegible] suitcases full of clothing, five bottles full of vitamin tablets, and two tired press agents full, as well, their subject. The vitamin tablets made no moves to rejuvenate the press agents, nor did the press agents make any overtures to the vitamin tablets.

Young Wolves Howl

ing and outside in the corridor ing and outside in the coirridor a number of male 'teen age wolves howled dismally for Miss Hayworth.

But she was busy packing for her first trip to Europe as a sort of belated postwar lease-lend export by her Hollywood proprietors. She sails today on the liner Veendam.

"Telephones, bells—yipes! This has been going on for days," said Rita. "I'm not complaining though."

Her spirits were up but her glamor was down. Rita saves that for working hours. Her flame-colored hair was cut short for her last picture, "The Lady from Shanghai," and hasn't grown out yet. But with eyes like hers—sunlight, glinting on a bottle of warm sarsparilla—she could make a living with a crew haircut.

Excited About Trip

Rita was excited over going abroad.

"I'm really thrilled," she said. "I want to see all the art galleries and architecture." She is taking a basket of fruit and jam to Paris for the artist Picasso and six suitcases of clothes to give to needy Europeans.

I asked her what the two-month trip was for and she said:

"Exploitation. But the army wants me, too."

I assured her that the army in Germany would be very pleased to see her, and she said:

"I'll be glad to see the army, too."

On her return she said she planned to divorce Orson Welles. A discreet friend said that although Miss Hayworth's family had been on the stage for three generations she found it difficult to continue matrimonial relations with "a husband who acts 24 hours a day."

Well-Kept, Friendly

Rita is a well-kept and friendly 28 years old. She has been in the flims 13 years—"I've danced since I learned to walk, made about 80 movies"—and worked up from $200 a week to a comfortable $250,000 a year B.T. (before taxes).

She is pleasantly natural away from the cameras. Her fans range from the Frank Sinatra bobby sox brigade to elderly widowers. Some of the more mercenary admirers ask her for garters, however, instead of autographed pictures.

"They auction off the garters at church bazaars and to help firemen buy fire wagons," explained one press agent. "A lot of disappointed farm wives also write to ask her how to be beautiful."

"Simplicity—and brushing the hair—help," firmly said Miss Hayworth, who fits her black-and-white checked suit like a six-bit cigar in a cellophane wrapper.

As I left a baggageman wheeled in two huge trunks, and the phone began ringing.

"Yipes," said Miss Hayworth,, glamorously.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Arthritis

Arthritis is such a crippling painful and stubborn disorder that it is good to be able to report any advance which promises relief to the thousands who are afflicted.

Arthritis is of many types but by and large, it means any inflammation of the joints. One type is known as osteo-arthritis. In this there is some overgrowth of bony tissue, with pain and interference with activity. It occurs most often in middle-aged and elderly people and while it may affect any of the joints, it is particularly common in the spine.

Dr. Richard Mawson of England treated 26 patients with osteo-arthritis by injecting lactic acid into the affected joints. Six of the patients had arthritis of the hip, 19 of the knee, and 2 of the wrist.

It is not an easy matter to determine definitely just what effect some particular treatment may have in cases of arthritis. First of all, there is a tendency for the condition to improve from time to time with or without treatment. Secondly, the patient's mental attitude has a great deal to do with the symptoms which occur.

However, in order to determine the effects produced by the lactic acid injections, before and after treatment Dr. Mawson determined the extent of such things as pain and tenderness, deformity, loss of appetite and sleeplessness, the distance the patient was able to walk, stiffness, and swelling of the joints. The lactic acid was mixed with a local anesthetic before it was injected into the joint. The amount of the material injected depended upon the location of the arthritis.

Following the injections it was noticed that the first symptom which disappeared was pain. With relief of the pain the patient's mental outlook seemed to improve. Sleep and appetite became better. Of the 26 patients, six were wage earners. Recovery was sufficient in all six of these to enable them to return to their previous employment. Of the remaining 20, most of whom were housewives, 18 were able to resume or at least do much more housework, while there was considerable relief of their symptoms. Of the other two patients, one received only a single injection while the other showed no improvement whatsoever.

Up to the present the exact cause of various forms of arthritis has not been determined nor is there any treatment which will bring relief in all cases. The physician will decide in which instances the use of the lactic acid injections shrould be employed.

Spiders are not insects—they belong to the class arachnida, which also includes scorpions, mites and ticks.

Weddings

Of interest here is announcement of the marriage of Miss Betty June Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cook of Detroit, Mich., formerly of Marion, and Joseph O'Lear, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald O'Lear of Detroit.

The ceremony was read at 9 o'clock mass in St. Clements Catholic church there Saturday by Rev. Father Urban Hoorman. For the wedding, the church altar was decorated with gladioli. A wedding breakfast followed at the bride's home, then a reception was held at Dodge Local hall.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by a maid of honor and bridesmaids, Misses Rosemary Goga, Evelyn Wiegand and Dorothy Kern, while best man and ushers were Robert O'Lear, George Odell, George DeSano, Raymond O'Lear and Robert Rickenbach.

White slipper satin fashioned the bride's gown which featured fitted bodice, full skirt and long train. Her fingertip veil was held by a tiara of seed pearls and her flowers were a colonial bouquet of white gladioli and iris.

The bride, who attended Central Junior High school here, was graduated from Busch High school in Detroit. Her husband attended St. Clements school, is a veteran of overseas service with the navy in the Pacific area, and is employed at the Dodge Truck plant. They will make their home for the present with the bride's parents following a wedding trip through the south.

MARION ENGINEERS MEET IN DELAWARE

Hear Talk on Sun as Source of Energy.

Dr. A. J. Deutsch, professor of astronomy at Ohio Wesleyan university, was principal speaker at a dinner meeting of 42 members and guests of the Marion chapter, Ohio Society of Professional Engineers, Monday night at Buns restaurant in Delaware.

Dr. Deutsch spoke on the subject, "Radiation of the Sun." He pointed out there are only two sources of energy, the sun and nucellar, and added that all energy on earth is derived either directly or indirectly from the sun.

He told his audience the sun is composed mainly of hydrogen gas with large amounts of helium, iron, sylicate and other elements and that it is the changing of four atoms of hydrogen to one atom of helium with a loss of approximately one per cent that gives us sun light. This one per cent, he said, is radiated from the sun in the form of energy which if all used, broken down into dollars would amount to one billion dollars a second.

During a business meeting Earl Whittmer, delegate of the Marion chapter, presented a report of the Ohio conference for the Ohio Society in Columbus. He said the Marion chapter was the only one to meet its membership quota last year and provisions were set up for organizing refresher courses for engineers who plan to take the examination for registration.

JENKINS CRITICIZES U. S. TRADE PROGRAM

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 16—Rep. Jenkins (R-Ohio), criticized the reciprocal trade program today, asserting that American businessmen lack information on what happens "behind the scenes."

More goods were imported in 1946 than in any other year, he said, and added state department officials plan new tariff rate reductions.

"Europe and Japan are preparing to take our markets," Jenkins said.

He said current tariff hearings before the house ways and means committee confirmed his contention that state department experts did not always negotiate treaties on a basis of advice from domestic industry.

High ranking Republican member of the committee, Jenkins told a reporter that at least one witness testified that businessmen had no way of knowing whether their recommendations were considered by treaty-drafters.

One of the witnesses was Irving R. Glass, executive vice president of the Tanners Council of America, which Jenkins said produced materials of "vital importance" to the shoe industry in Ohio and elsewhere.

Jenkins asked Glass at the hearings if industry had an opportunity to know how trade agreements are evolved by the state department.

"None whatsoever," Glass replied.

Jenkins said the state department invited businessmen to express their views at department tariff hearings but gave them no "right to dictate policies."

Leather, glassware and pottery are among United States products on which tariffs might be further reduced as a result of the conference, Jenkins said.

A Definition of Good Funeral Service

"THE ability to care for all details, troubling the distressed family for only the necessary facts, and to do all this with sympathetic understanding."

That is the definition of better funeral service given by one who is in a position to know. Had he further said, "You are more apt to find such service in a younger organization"—he wouldn't have been far from the whole facts.

13 CONVICTED BY HUNGARY

3 To Die for Treason; Others Face Long Terms in Prison.

By The Associated Press

BUDAPEST, April 16—A peoples court convicted 13 persons today of plotting against the Hungarian republic in an effort to reestablish the regime of Admiral Nicholas Horthy by armed revolt and sentenced three of them to die by strangulation.

Those condemned were Dr Gyorgy Donath, a former member of parliament who was accused of being the "brains" of the conspiracy; former Gen. Lajos Dalniki Veress, at whose home the state charged an "underground chief command" was established on Oct. 31, 1946; and Sandor Andras.

Sentenced to life imprisonment were Istvan Szent Miklossy, accused of establishing the revolutionaries' economic policy; and Balint Arany, accused of being one of a committee of seven in charge of engineering the purported plot.

The remaining eight were sentenced to serve from one to 14 years at hard labor. All the sentences are subject to review by the supreme council of the peoples court.

Interior Minister Laszlo Rajk, a Communist, announced Jan. 4 that 55 persons had been arrested in connection with the plot, which he said was to have been touched off the moment Russian occupation forces left the country.

Anti-Communists promptly replied the allegations constituted a Communist "frameup," intended to eliminate opposition to the government and entrench the present regime.

Admiral Horthy, who was regent of Hungary for 14 years, was released from jail in Nuernberg more than a year ago, after having been held for a time as a possible witness in the war crime trials before the international military tribunal.

He and his cabinet resigned near the end of the war, because, he said, they tried and failed to get an armistice from the Allies. The Germans immediately arrested him. He was last reported living near Marion.

MARKET CHECKS DECLINE TODAY

NEW YORK, April 16—The stock market checked its decline today and a number of leading industrials achieved narrow improvement.

Near the fourth hour advances were in the majority.

Modest bidding for shares was attributed by commission houses to short-covering and to hopes for a technical recovery in the wake of the declines of the past two sessions.

Among better performers were Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Goodrich, Western Union "A," Santa Fe, New York Central, American Can, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Kennecott, American Smelting and General Electric. Laggards included International Nickel, Norfolk and Western, Consolidated Edison and Westinghouse Electric.

MAC PHAIL ASKS NEW HEARING FOR LIPPY

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 16—Larry MacPhail, president of the New York Yankees, said Tuesday he had mailed a letter to President Will Harridge of the American league asking for a reconsideration of the penalties assessed against Manager Leo Durocher of Brooklyn and Yankee Coach Charley Dressen by Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Durocher was suspended for 1947 and Dressen for 30 days by Chandler last Thursday following a pair of hearings before Chandler in Florida two weeks ago. Both the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers also were fined $2,000 each by Chandler.

The hearings followed charges of defamation brought by MacPhail against the Dodgers.

BOXERS INDICTED FOR EVASION OF DRAFT

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, April 16—The FBI today announced the arrest of former bantamweight and featherweight champion Harry Jeffra, one-time heavyweight contender "Red Burman, and boxing promoter Nathan E. Phillips on draft evasion indictments.

The indictments, returned yesterday by a federal grand jury, charged the fighters obtained draft deferments on statements made by themselves and Phillips that they were employed by a firm serving ships that transported military supplies overseas.

Peter C. Galiano, who fought on boxing club cards in the east 10 years ago and attempted a comeback in 1944, was named in a similar indictment.

Jeffra recently embarked on a comeback as a featherweight. Burman faded after Joe Louis knocked him out at Madison Square Garden in 1942.

The indictments charge that the fighters and Phillips, an officer of the American Ship Cleaning Co., got deferments on false statements that the boxers were employed in essential jobs by the ship serving firm.

and asked that the school be included in an inquiry.

Atty. George W. Daniels of Springfield said he wanted to "protest most emphatically" against any investigation on grounds that reports to the committee contained "nothing new."

Asked by a committee member if he favored the federal government's purge of Communists from its payroll, Daniels replied:

Deplores Probe Expense

"I don't believe in spending $50,000,000 to purge Communists. I believe in using the money to build homes for veterans."

The committee said other witnesses would be given an opportunity to testify at later hearings.

The senate highway committee recommended for passage a bill authorizing creation of a commission empowered to build superhighways to be paid for out of tolls.

The house education committee heard additional pleas for approval of the $88,000,000 Daniels-Cramer school subsidy bill without any reductions.

Witnesses included Dr. George Hunter and Emerson Wood, both of Ironton, C. M. Weiseman of South Point, W. S. Wood of Lodi, A. E. Gwer of Chillicothe and Harold S. Vincent of Akron.

Death Camp Head Hanged

Rudolf Hoess, Convicted of Exterminating 4,000,000, Executed.

By The Associated Press

OSWIECIM, POLAND, April 16—Rudolf Hoess, convicted of sending 4,000,000 persons to death while Nazi commandant of the Oswiecim (Auschwitz) extermination camp, died on the gallows yesterday before a handful of guards and justice officials.

Calm to the end, the man who spurned a change to seek presidential clemency after his conviction for one of the biggest mass murders in history removed a wedding ring from his finger as he mounted the gallows and asked that it be sent with a farewell letter to his wife and children living somewhere in Germany.

Under a ministry of justice ruling the public was barred from witnessing the hanging of the stocky, 47-year-old former colonel, who was convicted April 2 by the nine-judge Polish supreme court after a three weeks trial.

Hoess' arrest last March climaxed a year-long search by Allied authorities throughout the former Reich. After his capture he signed a statement admitting that between June, 1941 and the end of 1943 he had, upon orders from Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler, supervised the gassing of 2,000,000 at the extermination camp, located in southwestern Poland near Krakow.

During his trial, the prosecution contended that Hoess had ordered the gassing and cremation of some 3,000,000 Jews and 1,000,000 other men, women and children from a dozen countries including Poland, Russia, Hungary, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Czechoslovakia.

CUBANS TO REENACT MURDER ABOARD YACHT

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, April 16—Cuban officials arranged today a reenactment of the events which took place aboard the yacht Satira in Havana harbor on April 8, when John Lester Mee, Chicago attorney and poet, was wounded fatally in his cabin.

Patricia Schmidt, 21, an almond-eyed dancer of Oriental specialties, whose professional name is "Satira," will be brought from Guanabaco prison tomorrow to satisfy investigating Judge Santiago Mencia's expressed curiosity as to how the 5 feet, 2 inch Toledo girl could fire a bullet which took a fatal downward course through the neck of the 6 feet, 2 inch Mee.

Miss Schmidt, who was indicted yesterday for homicide in connection with Mee's death Sunday, said Monday in the presence of her attorney, Rene Castellanos, that she fired one wild shot from a .22 caliber target pistol during an argument after she discovered Mee was married.

She said she had lived aboard the yacht in the shadow of towering Morro Castle since January.

"He had asked me to marry him," she repeated again and again. "We were terribly in love."

Steel Strike May 1 Seen "50-50 Chance"

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 16—"The Iron Age," an authoritative journal of the steel industry, reported today a "50-50 chance" that the steel industry would be shut down by a strike May 1.

Occasional negotiations between U. S. Steel subsidiaries and union representatives since mid-January "have produced nothing," it said.

The steel firm has made no wage offer, the publication added, holding its position that portal pay questions must be settled by legislation before such a commitment could be made; the union has named no definite wage demand except to ask for "a substantial increase."

FARM BUREAU STOPS FIGHT

Won't Oppose Bill Requiring Fee of $25, Agency Announces.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 16—The Ohio Farm Bureau announced today it would not oppose a bill by Sen. I. E. Baker (R-Montgomery) to require farm cooperatives and other non-profit organizations to pay the same $25 franchise fee as corporations.

"If the bill becomes a law," Perry L. Green, president of the big cooperative, said in a statement, "it will put farm cooperatives, which are non-profit corporations, on the same state franchise paying basis as profit corporations.

"Farm Bureau cooperatives are not opposed to this tax position. The total additional revenue to the state under such a change in the taxable situation of all farm bureau cooperatives in Ohio, including the state association located in Columbus, would approximate only $15,000 per annum."

Pay $10 Fee

Cooperatives now pay an annual $10 fee in lieu of franchise or corporation taxes. Corporations pay a minium $25 a year, plus $1 for each $1,000 of net worth. The tax, also applied to out-of-state firms operating on Ohio, yielded $5,000,000 last year.

Rep. Elton Kile (R-Madison), named yesterday by the Farm Bureau trustees as a key figure in the controversy between the state department of agriculture and the farm bureau, told the Columbus Dispatch he had been "on friendly terms with cooperatives for years."

Kile, a grain dealer of Kileville, was described by the Farm Bureau statement as Ohio representative of the National Tax Equality association, which has been fighting the cooperative movement for several years, principally on the tax exemption issue.

Kile's version of the events following the appointment Feb. 1 of Edwin J. Bath, for 18 years a lobbyist for the Farm Bureau at $5,200 a year, to an $8,800—later cut to $8,000—Post as special assistant to state agriculture director Frank N. Farnsworth, agreed in some details with the version given by the farm bureau trustees.

"Stooge" Grounds Claimed

Kile, who said Republican Chairman Fred Johnson had advised him to "go ahead and tell the whole truth," declared he had protested Bath's appointment to Johnson "on grounds that it would be believed that he was in the department as a stooge for Murray Lincoln."

Lincoln, executive secretary of the Farm Bureau, was accused of "one-man rule" of the Farm Bureau by Bath in a hearing March 20 before the senate agriculture committee.

Bath first disclosed his reasons for leaving the Farm Bureau in a conference in Farnsworth's office Feb. 24, Kile said, and Bath was asked to make a public statement but declined.

"Opposition was so evident in the house to Murray Lincoln and his philosophy," Kile said, "that I insisted that Mr. Bath should make his reasons public and that the best way to do it would be to go before the senate committee.

"As a result of Mr. Bath's testimony," he continued, "I am convinced his status has been cleared in the eyes of the independent cooperatives which had suspected that Mr. Bath was to be the Farm Bureau representative in the department of agriculture."

Discussing his own stand toward cooperatives, Kile said:

"If I can maintain friendly relations with the cooperatives, certainly I cannot be charged with being antagonistic toward them.

"It is my opinion that the independent cooperatives are as much concerned about the menace of Murray Lincoln's type of operation and his philosophy as are the independent groups of business men."

He accused the Farm Bureau of trying to buy out independent organizations and setting up competing units if the indepedents refused to sell.

Teachers Quit at Strike-Bound School Amid Scenes of Strife

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 16—Twenty-nine teachers of the strike-bound North College Hill school system—all but four—presented resignations last night as police intervened in a disturbance which broke up a board of education meeting in the suburban community.

Newsmen said two majority members of the board, Henry Sgrist and Lawrence Weingartner were struck in the face as angry citizens swarmed around their meeting table.

Approximately 700 pupils of all but one of the community's elementary and high schools have stayed away from classrooms since March 19 in protest against failure of majority members of the board of education to rehire Dr. William Cook, school superintendent.

In their notices of resignation, effective at the end of the current term, all 29 teachers declared the school board by its conduct had made the school system "an unprofessional place in which to teach," as it was labeled recently in "blacklist" action taken by the National Education association and the Ohio Education association.

There was no demonstration as the teachers' resignations were read, reporters said, but shouting citizens crowded around the board as it again voted on the resolution to renew Dr. Cook's contract.

Police restored order and the board took up other business.

Then, minority member Walter Hughes offered a resolution to ask officials to drop religion from the curriculum of Grace Avenue elementary school, which, although a part of the city school system, is taught by Catholic nuns since its pupils are of that faith. The school has not taken part in the strike.

Before the resolution could come to a vote, the citizen audience again rushed to the meeting table and jostled the two majority members of the board. As police escorted them from the building, there were several disturbances among the citizens, divided into two camps by the school board controversy.

JR. C. OF C. AIR SHOW JUNE 15 PLANNED

Preliminary plans for an air show here June 15 were made at a meeting of the Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night.

The show will be free to the public and will be held at the Marion county airport near Scioto Ordnance plant. Between 100 and 300 planes from Marion and elsewhere are expected to participate.

Activities tentatively planned include a model airplane show, exhibits of various types of aircraft, and formation and stunt flying. The Army will be contacted in an effort to procure jet planes for the show. The Dawn Patrol, an organization of amateur pilots from throughout the state, is expected to fly in for the activities.

A beauty queen will be chosen to preside over the event.

Members of the Jaycee committee in charge are C. L. McCalley, chairman; Charles Aronhalt, Crabill Clauer, Raymond J. Glassner, Charles L. Baker, and George F. Schwab.

Auto Dealers Seek Tab On Preference Lists

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 16 — Ohio's auto dealers have originated a "cooperative" plan to compare preference lists of new car orders in order to achieve more equitable distribution of the scarce supply of new vehicles.

Walt Hamer, executive secretary of the Ohio Auto Dealers association, declared that distribution had become such a problem because of "multiple requests" on the part of individuals, that the dealers had gone together to cross-check names of persons ordering from more than one dealer.

Most cars obtained by persons making requests of several dealers wind up on used car lots, offered for exorbitant prices, Hamer said.

Certain priorities to doctors and other essential motorists will continue to rate first with the dealers, Hamer said.

SUPPORT FOR GREEK AID PROGRAM GROWS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 16 — Lashing back with "lie" at Henry A. Wallace's criticisms abroad, the administration picked up support today for President Truman's program aimed at shutting the door on Communism in Greece and Turkey.

As Wallace went unnamed in the blistering denunciation Attorney General Tom Clark fired at "the cheap, blundering assault now being made by some upon the bipartisan foreign policy of our nation," the reference was obvious.

Particularly so when Clark told a Jefferson day dinner audience in Philadelphia that : "One who tells the people of Europe that the United States is committed to ruthless imperialism—and war with the Soviet Union—tells a lie."

It seemed equally clear, too, that Clark would not have delivered his blast at the former vice president if the cabinet officer thought Mr. Truman might object.

Wallace told the United States in a radio interview last night that he is "somewhat surprised" at the criticism at home of his speeches in England in view of Winston Churchill's, Fulton, Mo., address last year, also as a private citizen.

U.S. HUNTS FOR STRIKE PEACE

Earlier Schwellenbach Effort in Ruins as Phone Company, Union Disagree.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 16—Disappointed government conciliators rummaged through the ruins of Secretary Schwellenbach 's shattered peace plan today for a new formula to settle the cross-country telephone strike.

Government seizure of the telephone industry still was considered only as a last resort in top administration circles, despite the rebuff by both company and union to Schwellenbach's arbitration proposal.

The secretary of labor, who had hoped to end the strike of 340,000 telephone workers by Thursday night through a plan for negotiation of some issues and arbitration of the others, refused to give up hope of persuading them to accept.

Takes to Air

Showing anger at what he considered a flat rejection by both sides, he took to the air last night with an appeal for the public to put pressure on the industry and the strikers.

His conciliators took a close look at the replies of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the striking National Federation of Telephone Workers for concessions on which new negotiations could be built.

The A. T. and T. maintained it had not rejected the Schwellenbach proposal for arbitration by a national board of five persons, but merely had recommended 13 amendments "designed solely to expedite and implement final decisions on the issues in dispute."

The company suggested that 10 regional arbitration boards be established instead of one national board.

Union Sees Defeat

The NFTW, which has demanded nationwide arbitration or none, interpreted Schwellenbach's plan as providing for the type of local arbitration it opposes. Under his proposal the national board would consider individually the cases of the more than 20 subsidiary operating companies in the A. T. and T.'s Bell system.

Further, the union demanded a retroactive cost-of-living wage offer before it would entertain arbitration at all. President Joseph A. Beirne has said none of the Bell companies has made a wage offer since negotiations began last January. The union seeks a $12 weekly pay boost for all its members.

But after he had handed the union's letter of rejection to Schwellenbach Beirne told reporters:

"A solution to the entire problem will be found—the telephone strike will end. It will be much better for the telephone industry if a satisfactory compromise is reached." After Schwellenbach's broadcast Beirne's only comment was "we listened to his speech."

Transport Plane Sets Detroit-Cleveland Mark

Speeding at an average speed of 437 miles an hour a United Air Lines DC-6 transport plane Tuesday flew from Detroit to Cleveland in 12 minutes and 50 seconds. Capt. Robert Dawson, pilot of the plane estimated the speed neared 500 miles an hour at one time in the flight.

The trip was part of a series of courtesy flights in which the air line introduced its new transport, the Mainliner 300.

Speeding at 462 miles an hour the plane flew over the opening day baseball crowd at Cleveland Stadium. A 34-mile tail wind and a 98-mile "dive" from a 16,000-foot altitude over Detroit to 1,500 feet over the stadium aided Dawson in his dramatic demonstration of modern air tranport performance.

Mrs. Eugene H. Moore of 265 Bellefontaine avenue, received an invitation to be a passenger on the flight but was unable to accept. Her daughter, Miss Marjory Moore is on the United Air Lines staff at Cleveland as a secretary in the traffic department.

2 O.S.U. PROFESSORS DISCHARGED AS REDS

COLUMBUS, O., April 16—Dr. Howard L. Bevis, president of Ohio State university, disclosed today that at least two faculty members had been dismissed in the last year because of their Communist leanings.

Their names were not made public.

Dr. Bevis' statement was prompted by testimony before an Ohio legislature committee that a circular signed "the Ohio State university chapter, Communist party" had been circulated in the campus area.

"If such an organization exists," the university president said in an interview, "it exists surreptitiously and is using the name of the university illegally and in defiance of the university's orders"

He reported that the Ohio State Youth for Democracy, an organization banned from the campus last year, had "25 or 30 members with Communist sympathies" and that others withdrew their membership when the nature of the organization was revealed.

Dr. Bevis said he had no authority to deny admission to a student who was a Communist.

Columbus Teachers Ask Special Levy Vote

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 16—A Columbus teachers union formally ask the board of education yesterday to submit an operating tax levy to voters at a special election to provide funds for boosts in salaries.

"We feel that a three-mill levy is about the least to be asked if we are to adequately finance the schools," Virgel O. Green, president of the Columbus Classroom Teachers association, said in presenting the formal resolution.

"We still would have a tax rate lower than several cities in Ohio."

The AFL association and the larger independent Columbus Teachers Federation both are on record as favoring the special tax levy.

Yesterday's resolution disclosed the teachers are taking a $4,250 maximum annual salary for those with a master's degree.

TAFT AGREES WITH TRUMAN, PRICES HIGH

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 16—Senator Taft (R-Ohio), said today he agrees with President Truman that prices are too high.

But it would be a mistake, he added, to jack up wages before a determined effort is made to bring living costs down.

Taft, as chairman, called the senate-house committee on the economic report together today to decide how far it wants to go in studying economic conditions. Before it met, the Ohio senator told a reporter he wants a thorough study made of the nation's price structure.

"Everybody agrees that prices are too high, but there are a great many factors involved," he said. "I can't go along with the President's idea that the alternative to bringing them down is to put wages up. An increase in wages now will just peg prices permanently higher."

Instead, Taft said, he hopes that there will be "a leveling off" process by which prices will drop and thus offset demands for higher pay.

Mr. Truman told news conference questioners last week that if prices don't come down, wage increases would be justified. Democratic members of the joint committee subsequently have been pounding on this point.

Taft noted that while it may be possible to force the prices of manufactured products down, the world demand for foodstuffs is such that there would be more difficulty in bringing about adjustments in that field.

Meanwhile, house Republican leaders had hold of what some conceded privately is a political as well as an economic hot potato — a proposal to boost rents by 10 per cent.

The banking committee had planned a session today to reconsider a 9 to 4 vote approving such a rent hike two weeks ago, but cancelled the meeting after the house G.O.P. steering committee failed in a two-hour, closed door conference yesterday to reach a decision whether to sanction the boost.

INDIA LEADER TALKS AT ROTARY MEETING

Editor and Teacher Speaks on Homeland.

Dr. Pasupuleti Gopala Krishnayya, teacher and editor from India, spoke to the Rotary club Tuesday about India, its difficulties between Moslems and Hindus, and the country's approaching independence. The talk was given at Hotel Harding following the Rotary weekly luncheon.

Dr. Krishnayya emphasized that peace and security for India will come only through unity.

Lauds America

He praised America. He feels that the most glorious chapter of American history has just begun. Through its leadership it can bring peace and unity to the world, he said. In closing, he declared, "We, the people of India, are with you in this stupendous task not only physically, mentally, morally, but also, spiritually."

Leroy Clauer, Rotary program chairman for April, introduced the speaker.

Dr. Krishnayya identifies himself with Hinduism, which has been the religion of the majority of the people of India for 4,500 years.

A graduate of the University of Madras in India, he taught there and was also actively associated with building activities in his home section of India. Dr. Krishnayya is editor and publisher of "The Orient and the U.S.A." and managing editor of "The India and U. S. A. News Service," an agency which serves newspapers in India.

RESURVEY OF RIVER BASIN PROPOSED

Work Considered for 1948 If Funds Are Provided.

A resurvey of the twin river basin of central Ohio, which includes Marion and 16 other counties, pending congressional action, was announced by The Associated Press today as a joint plan of the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy district and the Huntington, W. Va. district of the U. S. Army engineers.

Given funds by congress, officials said, the resurvey would be made in the 1948 fiscal year. The Scioto-Sandusky conservancy district was reactivated by a tax levy of the district's counties last fall. Marion county's share of the tax will be nearly $10,000, assessed on real estate and public utilities in the next December tax collection.

Present plans, according to The Associated Press, call for a system of dams, holding basins, levees retaining walls and channels in the Scioto-Sandusky basin from Upper Sandusky to below Chillicothe. The system would be comparable to the Miami valley and Muskingum watershed flood control projects.

G. C. Chambers, chief engineer of the conservancy district, and Col. Alexander M. Neilson, chief Army engineer of the Huntington district, disclosed the plans before a meeting of the Franklin county chapter of professional engineers.

Lopat Jinx Trips Feller; Embree on Mound Today

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 16—Having had their ace pitcher, Bob Feller, trumped for a 2-0 setback by a left-handed jinx in the season's opener, the Cleveland Indians relied today on Charley (Red) Embree, who won eight and lost 12 last year, to get 'em even with the Chicago White Sox.

The Indians, too, hoped to have better luck against right-handed John Rigney, who won five and lost five a year ago, than they had yesterday against southpaw Ed Lopat before 55,014 fans, a throng that exceeded by some 11,422 the previous record opening day crowd at Cleveland.

Feller Gives 9 Hits

Lopat handcuffed the Tribe with six hits and fanned four, while Feller was nicked for nine hits in eight frames, including a pair of triples which produced the runs.

Last year Blazing Bob fanned 10 and allowed three hits in shutting out the White Sox in the first game, but yesterday the Chicagoans had four solid blows before the third inning was history, and Bob had whiffed only three.

Pat Seerey muffed an easy fly to let tripling Bob Kennedy score with the first Chicago run, but the husky outfielder tried to atone by leading the Tribe attack with a single and a resounding double to left, both of which failed to produce results. Kenny Keltner, who was on the trading block all winter, also got two blows for the Indians, the other hits being contributed by Manager Lou Boudreau and Dale Mitchell, rookie center fielder.

3 for 4

Don Killoway, Sox first baseman, paced the winners' with three hits in four attempts, two off Feller and one off Roger Wolff who replaced the speed king in the ninth.

The Sox came back for the clincher in the sixth. Dave Philley, center fielder up from Milwaukee, cracked one of Feller's fast ones into right center for three sacks, and came home on Ralph Hodgin's single to center with two out.

The Chicagoans had consecutive singles in the second, a double play halting that threat, and again in the third when Philley popped to short with men on second and third and two out.

The Tribe had only one real scoring chance, when a run behind in the fifth. Seerey and Keltner singled with none out, and although weak-hitting Feller was due up next, catcher Jim Hegan sacrificed. Feller fanned for the second straight time, outfielder Hal Peck walked to fill the sacks, and Mitchell watched Lopat's curve sneak over a corner for a third strike.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press

Pitcher Hal Newhouser, Tigers—Blanked the Browns 7-0 with four hits, for his 13th straight triumph over the Missourians over a three-year stretch.

Batter Pete Reiser, Dodgers—Scored three runs and drove in two with a single and double to account for every Brooklyn run as the Dodgers defeated the Braves 5-3.

Sophomores Shine As Reds Hand 3-1 Belting To Cards

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 16—Three sophomores and a rookie crowded veteran performers out of the spotlight as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-1, before 33,384 fans jammed into Crosley Field here yesterday.

Most sensational of the youngsters was Ewell Blackwell, second-year man with the Reds, who pitched no-hit no-run ball against the world champions for five innings and finished with a brilliant three-hit triumph.

Drive Runs Home

Outfielder Frankie Baumholtz, up from Columbia of the South Atlantic league, and Bobby Adams, second baseman who acquired his first major league experience in 1946, drove home the Reds' first two runs in the third inning.

Also in a starring role was Grady Hatton, who made the grade as Cincinnati third baseman last season — his first in professional baseball. He turned in a spectacular stop of Marty Marion's hot grounder and started a snappy double play which snuffed out a St. Louis rally in the ninth inning.

Eddie Miller, starting his fifth year as Cincinnati shortstop, salvaged some prestige for the old timers by accounting for the home team's third marker with a home run over the left field wall in the seventh inning.

Blackwell fanned six Cards and issued the same number of passes.

Stingy with Hits

He didn't allow anything that looked like a hit the first five frames. Then, pitcher Howie Pollet, first up in the sixth, dropped a single over second base.

St. Louis then went hitless until the ninth. After Stan Musial had fanned, Enos Slaughter drew a base on balls, and scored on successive singles by Whitey Kurowski and Dick Sisler.

Haas started the Reds off in the second inning with a single through short. Eddie Miller walked and, after Blackwell had looked at a third strike, Baumholtz lashed a single into right field to score Haas. Miller raced home as Adams singled.

The Reds finished with nine hits — eight of Southpaw Pollet who gave way to Ted Wilks at the start of the eighth. Baumholtz and Adams sparked the attack with two hits in four trips apiece.

JOE LOUIS SINGING RING-WEARY BLUES

Champ Talks of Retiring but Fight Game Skeptical.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 16 — Joe Louis seems to be getting those ring-weary blues again.

The heavyweight champion, who has successfully defended his title 23 times in the 10 years since he won it from Jim Braddock, said in San Diego, Calif., last night that he was prepared to announce his retirement.

"My mind is made up," the 32-year-old titleholder told reporters. "A man can go on just so long. If I wait until next year it may be too late."

First reaction on Broadway generally was skepticism, since in October, 1942, Joe had declared "my fighting days are over."

Every one knows what happened at that time. Joe changed his mind.

Joe is wiser this time. He qualified his San Diego statement with a provision that unless a title defense is arranged this summer he will quit and enter the insurance business in Detroit.

Since Mike Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting club already has announced Joe will fight in June against an opponent still to be picked, it seems Joe's plans to quit are premature. Joe Baksi, who knocked out Bruce Woodcock in London yesterday, has indicated he will not be ready to fight in June.

That leaves the way open for Jersey Joe Walcott, of Camden, for a shot at Louis' crown. Walcott, father of six children, whipped Baksi two years ago and since then has climbed to the fore of contenders, such as they are.

BOB WARMS UP—IN DUGOUT. Although Bobby Feller wasn't too hot on the mound in his opening stint against the White Sox in Cleveland the Tribe's pitching ace kept plenty warm in the dugout with this electrical heating jacket which he is plugging in here. This was Feller's first use of the jacket. The Sox beat him, 2-0, before 55,014 fans.

Coss' Cubs Borrow Page From Movieland's Script

Coss waited until the last inning to show his stuff yesterday, staging a movieland finish to edge Hazen 5 to 4.

The Marion Cubs, who are now in their second week of spring training, held their second intrasquad game yesterday at Lincoln park, dividing into two camps, one named for the Cub president, W. Dexter Hazen, and the other for the secretary-treasurer, Forest Coss.

Sunday the Coss outfit won 8 to 2. Yesterday the lineups were not the same, but again the name Coss seemed to be the formula.

Hazens' scored first as Bob Delamielleure drew a walk, stole second, and went home on a base hit by Vito Tutera in the last of the third.

Coss got the run back in the third as Aaron Gray went to first on an error, walked to second, moved to third on fielders choice, crossed the plate on a passed ball.

In the fifth, Joe Sucknaic doubled to bring Tutera in and went to third on a wild pitch. Jim Forbes walked and stole second. Bob Boddy singled to bring them in.

Chester Luucki went to second on a hit and an error and scored on an error. Frank Smith, Beavers, and Weibel crossed the plate on a stolen base and a fielders choice.

Eddington, Regula, and Brendell worked on the mound for Hazen, Brendell being charged with the loss and Tate, Rosin, and Smith shared pitching duties for Coss, Smith being the winning pitcher.

The top mound performance was given by Tate who faced only 10 men in three innings giving up one hit and fanning six.

Fielding in yesterday's game was very much improved over Sunday's and the hitting was also an improvement. While only six hits were made by both teams Sunday, ten hits were recorded yesterday, six by Hazens' and four by Coss.

'DOC' WADDELL ON CIRCUS PROGRAM AT BUCYRUS

Prayer To Open Mills Brothers Performance Saturday.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, April 16—When the Mills Brothers circus leaves its winter quarters at the fairgrounds here to present its first show here Saturday an old established custom will again be observed as "Doc" Waddell, "circus Bishop," will again be on hand to open the show with prayer.

Prominent in Ohio Masonic work, Waddell will make several other appearances here before the circus opening, appearing as special guest at the O. E. S. initiation Thursday night and Friday appearing as speaker at a student assembly at the high school.

Waddell is an honorary member of Bucyrus O. E. S. chapter, one of 2,009 chapters in which he holds the same distinction.

Double Main Go Thursday

Two colorful main events will top the wrestling card at the Marion Armory Thursday night. In the one ninety minute match Bull Montana the big Italian from Salt Lake City, who beat LaBell last Thursday night will meet the Mexican Indian, Indio Yaqui. Yaqui since his last appearance here has added some weight and is getting around to where he likes to mix a little rough stuff in his grappling and this is what he will need when he meets up with Bull Montana. The other main attraction is between the boy with the perfect build, Gordon Hessell, and the American born Jap, Duke Keomuka. Both these boys like to grapple on the clean side so their match should be fast and clever.

A ten minute prelim will open the show at 8:30. Call Markert and Lewis early for your best Ringside Seats. Prices (all taxes paid) General 75 cts. Reserved Ringside $1.00 and Kids, under 14 yrs., 50 cts.—Adv.

Rookies See Baseball Action But Old Line Stars Steal Show

By The Associated Press

Twenty-nine rookies saw action in the major baseball leagues on opening day, but such established stars as Hal Newhouser, Hank Greenberg, Ted Williams, Pete Reiser, Dom DiMaggio and Truett (Rip) Sewell stole the show.

Newhouser, whistling his left-handed shots through rain and fog at St. Louis, blanked the Browns 7-0 with four hits to get off to a flying start toward his fourth consecutive 25-victory season.

Greenberg, playing his first championship game in a Pittsburg uniform, broke up a scoreless duel between the Pirates and Chicago at Wrigley Field by blasting a sixth inning double to drive in the run that nipped the Cubs, 1-0. The blow enabled Sewell to best Hank Borowy as each hurler gave up five hits.

Drives in Two Runs

Williams drove in two runs with a single and a double to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 7-6 triumph over the Washington Senators at the Hub.

DiMaggio, in addition to playing superbly in centerfield with four putouts and an assist, rapped out three hits and scored twice.

Reiser scored three runs and drove in two to account for every Brooklyn run as the Dodgers defeated the Boston Braves 5-3 at Ebbets Field. Pete's double in the seventh drove in the tying and winning runs.

Schoolboy Rowe and Del Ennis, last year's top rookie, combined to give the Phils a 4-3 win over the New York Giants before 27,203.

In all, 244,689 fans witnessed the eight curtain-raisers, only 2,000 less than last year's record turnout.

After setting down the first 15 batsmen to face him, Tex Hughson, Boston's 20-game winner last season, faltered in the eighth, as the Senators scored four times to tie the score. The Sox came back to score the wining run in their half on a single, walk, wild pitch and Bobby Doerr's long fly.

Of the 29 rookies, only four managed to do all right by themselves as the large freshman group batted for a combined average of .197, getting only 14 hits in 71 times at bat. Clint Hartung, the Giants' highly publicized flychaser, Sam Mele, Red Sox rightfielder and Frank Baumholtz, who holds down a similar position with the Reds, each walloped a double and single. Hartung and Baumholtz drove in a run apiece.

Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn's Negro first baseman, and first of his race to reach the majors since 1884, failed to get a hit in three official trips to the plate.

Harding Varsity and Jay Vee Cagers Honored

Members and managers of the Harding varsity and junior varsity basketball teams were honored and letters awarded at a basketball banquet last night at the high school.

Nine varsity awards were made and 11 boys received Jay Vee monograms.

Senior varsity lettermen this year were James Riley, Donald West, William England, Henry Fields, and John Courtright.

The junior varsity letter winners were Richard Riddle, James Coss, James Hill, and James Rea.

Gets Managers Letter

James Fogle was awarded a letter for being the senior manager this year and Joe Reamsnyder, William Steele, Charles Ulrich, and Floyd Tharp were awarded assistant managers letters.

Coach D. N. Bohyer presented letters to the varsity and managers and Coach Kenny Somerlot made the reserve awards.

Sterling Geesman, line and co-track coach at Ohio Wesleyan, was the guest speaker. He reviewed highlights of the history of basketball from the time of its origination at Springfield college in Massachusetts, about 55 years ago to the present day. He told how some rule changes were brought about and of others now proposed.

Bohyer Reviews Season

Bohyer, who acted as the master of ceremonies at the banquet, followed him with some remarks about the past season in which the team won four of sixteen games. He said that the size of floor was not the biggest handicap that confronted the team. The greatest handicap, according to him, was that large crowds were not possible at the games.

Interest in the team can not be created, he stated, unless persons have an opportunity to witness the games. Consequently with a lack of interest, pressure is not put on for players who should be out for the team, to go out, and team spirit lags because of the lack of interest.

He said that his association with the team had been a pleasant one, and asked that all boys who plan to be out for basketball next season work out with the track team.

At the end of the meeting Douglas Torrence, president of the city school board; E. E. Holt, city superintendent of schools; E. Paul Huffman, school faculty manager, and A. C. May, Harding principal spoke.

The invocation was given by J. H. Smith.

AMONG THE SPECTATORS who watched the Pirates defeat the Chicago Cubs were Bing Crosby, the radio singer and part owner of the Pirates and Mrs. Hank Greenberg, wife of the slugging Pirate star. The score was 1-0.

British Take No Responsibility For Wallace Remarks

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 16—A high British official let it be known today that the British government accepts no responsibility for anything that Henry A. Wallace has said in Britain or may say in the future.

In almost the same words that White House Press Secretary Charles Ross used yesterday, the official said that Wallace is regarded as purely a private citizen. The fact that he had lunch with Prime Minister Attlee last week, the official added, does not change his status.

Last night Wallace answered critics of his recent speeches in a broadcast interview with CBS Reporter Bob Trout.

"A little over a year ago at Fulton, Mo., a distinguished private citizen of Great Britain—Winston Churchill — told the American people how he felt. The President of the United States sat behind him as he spoke. Mr. Churchill said:

"'Amid his heavy burdens, duties and responsibilities the President has travelled 1,000 miles to dignify and magnify our meeting here today. The President has told you that it is his wish that I should have full liberty to give my true and faithful counsel to these anxious and baffling times.'

"...At Fulton, Winston Churchill expressed personal opinions at variance with those of his government. Now there was nothing wrong in this, surely. A large part of the American press and the Republican party applauded Mr. Churchill's views. Those of us who disagreed with his views certainly did not deny the right of this distinguished British citizen to speak out in the United States. That is part of every American's fundamental faith in free speech.

"As Mr. Churchill was invited to state his private views in the United States, so I was invited to state mine in Britain. I have said no more and no less over here than I have said in America. I have spoken out for a constructive program for peace, and as long as there is hope for peace I shall continue to speak out. Mr. Trout, I think that is the American way."

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

PHILIP took the night letter Mary had sent me as gingerly as if it were a fuse atached to an explosive.

But, as he read it, I saw the corners in his lips twitch, and then, unbelievably, he broke into a guffaw; rather a weak one, but still, distinctly, an audible laugh.

"This came from Mary, all right," he said. "Nobody else in all the world could have penned it. But this shows you're wrong about her, begging your pardon, Dr. Twitchell. She couldn't be in this mood one day, and be contemplating suicide the next."

The old physician did not answer him, but simply elevated his eyebrows in my direction, and I knew that enlightening Philip Veritzen about Mary was up to me.

"You forget, Phil,"I said, "what a marvelous actress Mary is."

He shot a keen look at me.

"Just what do you mean by that?" he asked.

"Two things," I told him steadily. "First, if she did have self-destruction in mind, she wanted no hint of it to reach us before she should arrive here. She is shrewd enough to realize that she would have been put under guard immediately.

"Second,"I went on, "while I am sure she has been dallying with the thought of suicide under certain contingencies, I believe she wanted to find out something definite before she tried to carry out her scheme."

"Find out something?" Philip Veritzen repeated violently. "For Heavens' sake, what? You're talking in riddles just like the rest of them"

"That's what it all is, a riddle," I said wearily. "If I knew what she wanted to find out, I would have the key to the problem. As it is, I can tell you only what I have noticed in Mary since she came back, and I have been with her almost every minute of the time until Dr. Twitchell put her to sleep. Would you like me to do that?"

"Great Heavens above, yes!" he said explosively. "Don't omit a single syllable."

With a mental eye on my father's wrist watch and the ten minutes he had promised, which were so rapidly slipping away, I began the saga of Mary's return, omitting nothing.

Expression Changed Once

He never took his eyes from my face as I talked, but only once did I see his expression change. That was when I related how Mary had given little cries after her first study of her lines, of her throwing the manuscript across the room, and of her heartbroken wail: "If it's true, I want to die! I will die!" He nodded his head once at that, and pressed his lips tightly together.

When I had finished with her story of her actions, as she had fixed it up playfully for Dr. Twitchell, he nodded his head again.

"She probably never played a better scene, Dr. Twitchell," he said, turning to the physician.

"That's what I thought when I saw and heart her in action," Dr. Twitchell replied. "It was a marvelous performance, but it didn't convince me. I could see the gleam deep in her eyes which not only told me what she was doing, but warner me of the danger confronting her."

A Real Danger

"I am convinced, now, that it is a real danger," Philip Veritzen said gravely. "I also am fairly sure I know what her secret fear is"

He turned and looked at me, then at Dicky.

"I see you both have ideas on the subject," he said, "but, of course, no one of us can voice our belief until Mary herself comes out with it."

Then his eyes fairly bored into mine.

"Madge," he said, "you are Mary's only hope. If she confides in anybody, it will be in you."

YOU KNOW THIS PIECE IS ZONED FOR BUSINESS— NOT WORKSHOPS AND GARAGES.
WHY, THERE'S A SHOP A BLOCK AWAY AND A GARAGE ACROSS THE STREET!
THEY WERE BUILT YEARS AGO. I MIGHT HAVE TO STOP YOU ON THIS CONSTRUCTION.
YOU WOULDN'T DO THAT! WE'RE ALL SET TO START NEXT WEEK. I'M SURE IT'S ALL RIGHT, MR. BLOKE.

HELLO? YES, THIS IS LEE SPEAKING—
THAT WAS THE CONSIGNEE FOR THE CARGO WE FLEW HERE. HE'S AT THE AIRPORT WITH A TRUCK— WE'LL HAVE TO RUN OUT THERE TO SIGN THE STUFF OVER TO HIM. SORRY WE HAVE TO TAKE OFF LIKE THIS, PAT.
RUN ALONG — I JUST DROPPED IN TO SEE HOW YOU WERE DOING... MIND IF I USE YOUR PHONE? SHOULD CALL MY OFFICE BEFORE I LEAVE HERE.
HELP YOURSELF. SEE YOU LATER, PAT.
HMMM — I COULD BE WRONG, BUT I HAD A FEELING WHEN TERRY ANSWERED THAT PHONE CALL THAT HE DIDN'T EXPECT IT TO BE A BUSINESS MATTER.
